Half-Time Commercials

Are subtle, or subliminal warnings about the coming Pole Shift included in the recent half-time commercials? 2012 was hyped by the establishment as the year the Mayan Calendar was supposed to end, the year of the Apocalypse, so such references would be allowed. But look at what's included! In the Chevy commercial there is devastation, what looks like a space ship having crashed and volcanic dust everywhere. A Chevy truck emerges from under the litter and takes off to meet other survivors in Chevy trucks. One asks "where's Dave". The answer is that he was driving a Ford, so did not make it. The song in the background "looks like we made it" implying survival in cities. Then voice over says "from the beginning of your work day to the end of the world" as it begins raining frogs.

Interesting commercial from last nights Superbowl. The subtle little hints are on the rise for sure.

Then there is the Clint Eastwood commercial for Chrysler.

Clint Eastwood Super Bowl Ad Parodied

February 7, 2012

<http://www.hollywoodreporter.com/news/clint-eastwood-super-bowl>

Eastwood's Super Bowl commercial for Chrysler, dubbed "It's Halftime in America," has become controversial because it appears to support auto-industry bailouts and, some say, the reelection of President Obama.

Taken to be alluding to Obama's re-election, there is also the obvious symbolism in references to Second Sun sightings.

This two-minute video aired at halftime during the Superbowl and has stirred surprising controversy. Aside from being voted the most popular Superbowl ad (67% per MSNBC poll) and aired before an optimally immense and captive viewing audience, it also shows a remarkable number of views that include the Sun. Just as Eastwood is saying "when division, discord and blame made it hard to see what lies ahead". At 1:35, there's even a special animated effect depicting an orb falling away from the Sun. Given the somber tone of the video, could it be a subliminal attempt to warn the American public of the impending hardships soon to be visited by the New Madrid adjustment and the pending passage?

And during the same time period, a Saturday Night Live skit spoofing Gingrich's proposed Moon colony showed a reference to the 7 of 10 scenarios, which start in Indonesia!

A veiled Saturday Night Live skit, using humor to veil the Pole Shift upcoming disasters, is about as mainstream a media message as is allowed at this point. For a Pole Shift/disaster related, though humorous skit, just watch the first skit (about 5 minutes long). Notice the huge crack in the earth between Australia and Indonesia, as Earth is in the skit's background window from the view of Newt's moon colony. At the end of the skit, notice the earth blows up at the Australia/Indonesia crack point.

The Zetas recently hinted that there would be more pointed messages. When Obama focused on the I-35 Mississippi bridge collapse they predicted that we would see more such hints.

ZetaTalk Prediction 9/17/2011: What made Obama chose the 2007 collapse of the Minneapolis bridge on I-35 as his example of infrastructure needing to be repaired? This was of course a dramatic incident, with the bridge flinging to one side and folding in waves against that side. Clearly there was tension, the Mississippi pulling apart at that point. This is also an incident that got a lot of attention on the Internet for a ZetaTalk prediction come true. We had predicted Mississippi bridges ripping during the New Madrid, and this was the first example of this prediction culminating. Curious minds, entering the date and place into search engines, would arrive at the ZetaTalk predictions. Is this Obama's way of leaking the truth? Yes, and just the start of such maneuvers.

Wobble Figure 8

The Earth wobble can be demonstrated in many ways, from the location of the Sun at sunrise or sunset, weather maps showing distribution of heat or cold in accordance with the wobble pattern, and on occasion a weather satellite image showing cloud formations jumping backwards or suddenly changing direction. But when looking at the big picture, a satellite image of the whole globe taken over a 24 hour period, cloud activity even shows the Figure 8 pattern of the wobble. Watch the animation on this Pole Shift ning blog to see the Figure 8 wobble emerge, undeniably.

ANIMATION: <http://poleshift.ning.com/profiles/blogs/proof-of-the-earth-wobble>

The hourly snapshots used to make the animation were taken from the FY-2D, a geostationary satellite, launched and operated by China's National Satellite Meteorological Centre. A geostationary satellite is essentially pinned to a spot on the Earth, traveling with that spot during rotation or any wobble motion, so the land plates remain static in these images. But the wobble can be detected by the motion of the clouds! As the Earth is rotated, clouds move from east to west and roll away from the Equator in circles, the Coriolis Effect. But notice how the Figure 8 swings from one side to the other so the clouds first pull to the east at the top of the globe above India, then suddenly switch to pull to the west! This is the tilt to the East, then the tilt to the west, in action.

IMAGE: East/West Swing

The up/down motion of the Figure 8 can be detected at the right side of the globe, over Indonesia. First the clouds are drifting up and to the East, then reverse to move down.

IMAGE: Up/Down Swing

The east African coastline shows the Figure 8 swing from yet another side, as the clouds first drift up and to the east, then stall and move down.

IMAGE: Africa View

ZetaTalk Figure 8 Description 1/2/2005: Planet X began swinging its N. Pole around, in place, pointing it toward the Earth such that the N. Pole of Earth was repulsed and swung away in a Figure 8 pattern, a pattern dictated by where the magnetic N. Pole of Earth was positioned during the 24 hour rotation of Earth - at times vulnerable, at times hidden behind the curve of the Earth.

Philippines Hammering

Just as the Sunda Plate is steadily sinking during the 7 of 10 scenarios, the Mariana and Philippine plates are also steadily tilting and folding beneath their respective plates to the west. The Mariana Trench is also predicted to collapse, snapping shut. Does tilting and pushing the Philippine Plate under the Philippine Islands create trauma in the Philippine Islands? Certainly the synchronicity of buoy 52402 on alert and the hammering earthquakes in the Negros-Cebu region between February 6-8, 2012 in the Philippine Islands would show that it does.

Since the Philippine and Mariana plates, and the Mariana Trench, have irregular edges and curves, how does the folding and tilting process work? Its not a simple process, as the Zetas explain.

IMAGE: Folding Plates

ZetaTalk Comment 2/11/2012: What does it mean for the Mariana and Philippine plates to tilt and fold? The plates are unevenly shaped. Is there evenly spaced subduction on the western edges, or are there points where more or less pressure is applied? Having the Marian Trench collapse is an easy concept to understand, as this is like a clam snapping shut, a simple shuffle of the undersea land to the west. Even though the trench is not a straight line, curving toward the west as it curves southward, it would seem that moving the entire Pacific plate east of the trench a bit to the west would simply close the trench.

The islands dotting the eastern side of the Mariana Plate find water heaping on occasion during this process, which the buoys lately have shown is occurring. While the Mariana Plate may have its angle of slope toward the west somewhat altered, this is excused by the populace on the Mariana Islands as the tides are washing their shores, and tides can be erratic. The eastern edge of the Philippine Plate, which is merely an undersea ridge, also gives little evidence that the angle of drop toward the west, the slope, has increased.

But the western edge of the Philippine Plate abuts the land masses of the Philippine Islands, and during the folding process must drop, and subduct, to accommodate the compressing Pacific. This forces the Philippine Plate under Taiwan, under the island of Luzon, and under most of the other Philippine Islands. Taiwan and Luzon are assumed by man to be residing on the Philippine Plate, but as we have explained they cling to the plates to their west, and do not sink while the Philippine Plate tilts and folds.

Wiki's Shame

If one goes into Wikipedia looking for either Nancy Lieder or ZetaTalk, they are directed to this single page on a Nibiru Collision. This article has so many errors, and so many major omissions, that one hardly knows where to start. ZetaTalk has been famous for 15 years, and I have frequently heard about this Wiki article by those horrified by the disinformation. Yet Wiki refuses to change a word of it. There is a program, a bot running on this page that prevents any changes! And pleas to the editors are refused. This has also happened to Lloyd Pye of the Star Child project. Clearly, this is Wiki's shame. Here are just a few points, demonstrating how very owned they are by the establishment.

1. Its not a collision. It's a passage. Wiki states in their Nibiru Collision article "The idea was first put forward in 1995 by Nancy Lieder, founder of the website ZetaTalk." And further, in referring to the ZetaTalk prediction, "The predicted collision ...". If that's the case, and this whole article is founded on what Nancy Lieder said in 1995, then it should say Nibiru passage not collision. This proves that the article was authored by the cover-up, with deception and disinformation as the goal. Wiki has allowed this to continue. This is Wiki's shame. Only the weak cooperate with a cover-up by promoting a deception.
2. The Wiki article focuses on minutia, missing the big picture entirely. ZetaTalk provided the coordinates for the inbound Nibiru, aka Planet X complex, and in March, 2003 the planet arrived in the inner solar system almost precisely where it had been predicted to arrive in 1997. Planet X has since been showing up on the SOHO images, despite all editing attempts by NASA to eliminate the evidence, and been twisting the Earth's magnetosphere regularly, at times when the Sun has been too quiescent to be blamed. Is this not significant? Does this not deserve at least a mention? But Wiki prefers to devote space to a 2003 dead dog issue, stating "roughly a week before the supposed arrival of Planet X, Lieder appeared on KROQ-FM radio in Los Angeles, and advised listeners to put their pets down in anticipation of the event. When asked if she had done so, she replied that she had, and that 'the puppies are in a happy place.' She also advised that 'a dog makes a good meal'. [9]" In this focus on trivia, Wiki fails to mention that on occasion Nancy Lieder has toe jam. I'm sure this is relevant somehow. Lets get our priorities straight.
IMAGE: Planet X 2003 Arrival
3. Wiki states that the ZetaTalk website only reached fame as a result of Mark Hazelwood's plagiarism, stating "*Lieder's Planet X idea first spread beyond her website in 2001, when Mark Hazlewood, a former member of the ZetaTalk community, took her ideas and published them in a book: *Blindsided: Planet X Passes in 2003." Nancy Lieder had a book published years earlier, and Mark Hazelwood has completely faded from view despite a 2002 interview on C2C to promote his book. But was that the first? Nancy Lieder and the ZetaTalk predictions were included in the C2C magazine, After Dark, in April of 2001. She was on with Art Bell on June 11, 2002. And again with George Noory on November 25, 2002. In the After Dark magazine again in January, 2003. And again on C2C with George Noory on April 25, 2003 and May 13, 2003 and numerous times since. Yet none of that gets a mention in the Wiki article! The fame of ZetaTalk was due to Mark Hazelwood? Get real, Wiki, and stop slavishly serving those who want to diminish the ZetaTalk message.
4. ZetaTalk accuracy doesn't even get a mention! Can Wiki claim ignorance? ZetaTalk Accuracy is conveniently detailed on YouTube vids Part1 and Part2 and close to 200 instances detailed on the ZetaTalk website. Many instances document where the Zetas described a scientific process prior to human scientists admitting or understanding or discovering this process. For instance, on the nature of Brown Dwarf planets, Cell Evolution, Deflecting Asteroids (likely plagiarizing the Zeta argument which had been used during the sci.astro debates on the issue), Faster than Light particle flow (a recent and stunning revelation during CERN), Magnetic Trimesters, Anti-Gravity Force, and Solar Reversals. Zetas right again!

5. Wiki fails to mention that governments of the world appear to be rapt followers of the ZetaTalk message. China's Ghost Cities which are inland away from the coast and in the northern sections of China, not close to India which will become the new S Pole. Then there is Obama's Executive Order 13575, issued on June 9, 2011 and describing the rural infrastructure requirements needed by hordes of refugees from the disasters described by the Zetas. Just a year earlier, the telepathic Zeta described this very same plan as one likely to be formulated by Obama. And Abu Dhabi rushing from their sinking country to the Queensland coastline which per ZetaTalk will gain elevation as a result of the Pole Shift.
6. There is also scant mention in the Wiki article about NASA and JPL seemingly obsessed with ZetaTalk and Nancy Lieder, mentioning her and only her by name in interviews by Dick Morison and Don Yeomans. Why the threat if there is nothing to the predictions and the accuracy? Instead Wiki devotes a full paragraph at the top of their article to the defunct Hale-Bopp issue. "Lieder first came to public attention on Internet newsgroups during the build-up to Comet Hale-Bopp's 1997 perihelion. She stated, speaking as the Zetas, that 'The Hale-Bopp comet does not exist. It is a fraud, perpetrated by those who would have the teeming masses quiescent until it is too late.'" This was entirely taken out of context, and the full history of Zeta statements on Hale-Bopp show the ESO observatory backed what the Zetas were saying about the early claims on comet emissions in 1995.

Since Wiki insists on retaining its falsehoods about Nancy Lieder and ZetaTalk, its trivia focus and outright errors, let it stand as a monument to the intimidation of the cover-up. Just look at what timid editors without backbone or integrity will do!
