

The ZetaTalk Newsletter

Issue 242, Sunday May 22, 2011

Weekly news and views from around the world and beyond.

New ZetaTalk

Earth Changes

Announcements

Signs of the Times

Fort Worth Lightning

On May 10, 2011 Fort Worth, TX recorded over 300 lightning strikes, which exploded a number of transformers. Videos taken at the time show what appears to be earthquake lighting, though no quake occurred. Nor did rain occur during the lighting storm.

IMAGE: Fort Worth Lights

'Fireballs' Reported in East Fort Worth

May 10, 2011

<http://www.star-telegram.com/2011/05/10/3066121/fireballs-reported-in-east-fort.html>

Several transformers were struck by lightning in east Fort Worth. About 210 cloud-to-ground lightning strikes were reported in Tarrant County between 8 and 9 p.m., said National Weather Service meteorologist. Some 120 more incidents of lightning striking the ground were reported from 9 to 10 p.m. If lightning carries a large enough electrical charge, it can "blow" a transformer.

Per the Zetas, though transformer explosion did occur, earthquake lights were also occurring. Fort Worth is along the Balcones Escarpment, where the rock strata changes, and this created tension in the rock, allowing the compressed rock to be a conduit for electricity, thus the earthquake lights, and thus the discharge between the upper atmosphere and the ground. More of this to follow!

IMAGE: Texas Escarpment

ZetaTalk Explanation 5/21/2011: Where the blue plasma lights seen during the recent Fort Worth, TX lightning storm are ascribed to exploding transformers, there were also earthquake lights among the mix. A massive number of lightning strikes, in the hundreds, were recorded during the hour. What caused such a lightning storm, which occurred without rain? Where lightning was certainly present, this was an effect, not a cause. The N American continent is under extreme stress due to the bowing, whereby Mexico is pulled west while the rest of the continent remains in place. We have described the center of the bow at San Diego, and following this to the east one arrives in the vicinity of Fort Worth, TX. Signs of stress have been noted for the past couple years along this stress line, even east of the Mississippi. What was it about Fort Worth at this particular time that elicited such rock compression that electrical charges jumped into the atmosphere, creating a lightning storm? Fort Worth is at the edge of the Balcones Escarpment, where the rock strata changes from older rock to softer more recent rock. The escarpment resists breaking, forcing the softer rock to the east of the escarpment to stretch over the escarpment, thus allowing electrical discharge from the highly compressed rock. Will such lightning storms be on the increase as the N American continent is bowed in the extreme, prior to the New Madrid adjustment? You can count on it!

Sunda Plate Bend

Recently a spate of sinkholes in Viet Nam, poor drainage of rivers in upland Thailand, and a sinkhole in the Philippines have drawn a remarkable line across the Sunda Plate. The Sunda Plate is that portion of the Eurasian Plate that is the tongue holding Indonesia, Malaysia, Thailand, Viet Nam, and the Philippines. Per the Zetas, the Sunda Plate operates as an extension of the Eurasian Plate, but the tongue has a distinct border. Note the remarkable correlation with this rash of recent incidents with the Sunda Plate border. All these incidents suddenly occurred around May 1 and during the two week following, as though the northern edge of the Sunda Plate bent at that point, at that time. Note that the incidents took place in the main in highlands, too. Not a sinking issue.

IMAGE: Sunda Outline

Landslide Hits Village in Cebu [Philippines]

May 10, 2011

<http://www.sunstar.com.ph/cebu/local-news/2011/05/10/landslide-hits-village>

At least four hectares of farmland in Barangay Bairan, City of Naga collapsed, changing the landscape of this upland village.

In Viet Nam sinkholes began appearing overnight in Huong Vinh, which is right on the Sunda Plate border. This was preceded by sinkholes at Lam Dong in south Viet Nam, and then a river bank collapsed, dropping morning shoppers into the water at Rach Cam. This does not appear to be sinking, but ground movement.

IMAGE: Viet Nam Sinkholes

7m Deep Hole Appeared

May 10, 2011

<http://www.bee.net.vn/channel/1987/201105/Hoang-loan-xuat-hien-hai-ho-sau>

A landslide reportedly hit Vinh Dai hamlet, Huong Vinh commune in the northern central province of Ha Tinh on May 3 night, creating two deep holes around 5 meters deep and 6 meters in diameter.

Dozens of People Fell into the River

May 09, 2011

http://dzo8.com/news/Sat_lo_dat_ca_chuc_nguoi_roi_xuong_song

Avalanche occurred at many sales people are present and some visitors still eat and drink. 12 stalls selling food of local residents and sink the riverbed at the junction of the market area Rach Cam.

Surrounding Land Cracking Phenomenon in Di Linh (Lam Dong)

May 12, 2011

<http://www.nhandan.com.vn/cmmlink/nhandandientu/toisu/doi-song/i-s-ng-tin-chung/>

The people in the area said that this phenomenon started happening about two weeks ago, the level is still growing and no signs of stopping. In particular, there are cracks across the road surface asphalt ripping at the same time, the cracks also appeared in many houses in the region are making people panic.

Flooding in the Thailand highlands is outside of what would be expected for the rainfall, which is slight. Note that no rain is noted for Tak. For Phayao there is no rainfall whatsoever for the month of May. For Dok Kham Tai at the Rai airport also, no actual precipitation for the month of May. In almost every case, the flooding is along rivers, overflowing rivers or a backwash from a river. This is what would occur if the river bottoms had heaved along the Sunda Plate boundary, due to the bend, slowing the drainage and essentially damming the rivers. These are the highlands of Thailand, not a sinking issue.

IMAGE: Thailand Flooding

Sukhothai Yom River at High Tide

May 12, 2011

<http://www.dailynews.co.th/newstartpage/index.cfm?>

The governor of Sukhothai Province ordered to expedite assistance to people affected by the tsunami flood along the riverbank alert the Yom River. Even with no rain in Tak province to 3-4 days, even though the water that flooded many areas north of Lampang Wang then flows into the river flows through Sam Ngao district.

Toxic Flash to Crash Thousand Rai Area

May 13, 2011

<http://www.komchadluek.net/detail/20110513/97391/>

The water flowing from the mountains down the elephant channel flood flow in several villages in the municipality Dok Kham Tai.

Phayao Declared Food Disaster Areas.

May 10, 2011

<http://news.impaqmsn.com/articles.aspx?id=418037&ch=lc1>

Water debt was expected to overflow the river water level is about 50-80 cm.

Flood Situation North Li

May 11, 2011

<http://www.baanmaha.com/community/thread40646.html>

However, if the rain does not fall again, will cause the water level in the River Lee River and flash are created by the mountains. Tended to decrease continuously.

The Zetas at the start of the 7 of 10 scenarios used the term bend repeatedly to describe what will be happening to the Sunda Plate, and this bending was certainly evident in early May, 2011.

ZetaTalk Prediction 10/16/2010: We have spoken previously of the areas to be affected by the bending of the tongue holding Indonesia, but can now give more specifics. Draw a line from the city of Hangzhou directly east, and consider this horizontal line the point of bend. Thought the tipping of the Philippine Plate at first gives the islands of the Philippines some relief, as the subduction of the plate is pushing under them, as the bending of the tongue holding Indonesia progresses, they too find an astonishing loss of sea level. There is no predictor indicating that the bend and drop are about to happen that we could point to. There are, as we mentioned there would be, indicators of the direction that the plates are being pushed.

Indonesia Press Awakens

During the steady sinking on the plate tongue holding Indonesia over the past few months, rain and high tides were consistently mentioned in news articles. It was quickly apparent that this was an arranged cover-up ploy, an attempt to limit panic that the ZetaTalk predictions were coming true, as often no rain whatsoever was apparent. After months of this, the press began inserting phrases such as "alleged" rain, showing their impatience with this editorial demand. Lately, the press has entered a new phase. They are openly mentioning, even hammering on the fact that months go by and the flooding does not subside. Ah, nothing like an awakened press, challenging the heavy hand of the cover-up!

IMAGE: Persistent Flooding

Two Months Already 5th District in Lamongan Flooded

May 13, 2011

<http://www.metrotvnews.com/read/newsvideo/2011/05/13/128193/Dua-Bulan>

It's been two months, thousands of homes in five districts in Lamongan, East Java, flood.

Flooding was Also Receded, Residents Flee

May 13, 2011

http://berita.liputan6.com/daerah/201105/334121/banjir_tak_juga_surut_warga

Flood Benanain [East Nusa Tenggara] this has happened more than two months and had not yet subsided.

Dozens of Villages in Kutai Awash Flood

May 06, 2011

<http://www.metrotvnews.com/metromain/news/2011/05/05/50804/Belasan-Desa>

Flooding has been going on since two weeks and so far the water level continues to grow.

Annunaki Dollars

Did you know that the Annunaki show up on both the Iraqi Dinari and the Swiss franc? This issue was raised on the weekly Q&A chat with the Zetas, and confirmed. Per the Zetas, not only are the Annunaki on the franc, the entry and exit of Planet X from the solar system and the relationship to the Earth's orbit are shown!

IMAGE: Swiss Franc

The Iraqi Dinari shows seated Annunaki, similar to the Annunaki as depicted by the ancient Sumerians and featured by Zacharia Sitchin in his books. Iraq is the modern day Sumer, so there is a reason for featuring the Annunaki on their dollars, but what about the Swiss?

IMAGE: Iraqi Dinari

ZetaTalk Explanation 5/14/2011: There are too many similarities to be coincidence indeed. The solar system on the franc cannot be denied, as all the planets and even their moons are marked. A comet like object enters coming within the orbit of Venus on the franc, crossing Earth's orbit twice, just like Planet X, aka Nibiru. Bearing in mind that Planet X blocked the Earth from progressing in her orbit on December 25, 2003, mark the place where the comet first crosses Earth's orbit on the franc as being December. It was in the summer of 2003 that Planet X was no longer visible at night, so mark Earth at that point on the franc being in the June position. We have stated that the pole shift would occur when Earth had been pushed back in her orbit to the August position - stopped in December and pushed all the way back counterclockwise to August. Push the Earth on the franc from the June position to the August position and you have it where the comet will cross a second time.

Then there are the tall men, with slender faces. The Annunaki, even historically, as seen as walking taller than man, giants, with a face and head more long than round. Why would the Swiss be in possession of this information, and why would they put it on their franc? The Puppet Master lives in Europe and certainly utilizes the secrecy of the Swiss banks during his massive global operations. In the main, he operates behind the scenes, so his great wealth and influence cannot be calculated or determined. The Annunaki provided the Maya with a calendar, and the ancient Babylonians with their shar method of counting and their knowledge of the solar system, and built the Giant Pyramids as a sighting device during a prior pole shift. Are these the only tidbits of knowledge available to man?

Knowledge is power and great wealth buys secrets, as few can resist the immense payments proffered. The artisan who designed the franc did not expect to be discovered! Who could imagine that ZetaTalk would arrive to announce the arrival of Planet X in 2003, when the establishment was desperately covering it up. Who would imagine that ZetaTalk would insist that the Earth had stopped in her orbit, and revealed her anticipated orbital position at the time of the pole shift. The artisan was smug in his knowledge, flaunting it, secretly smirking every time he saw this information appearing in plain sight. Of course, once out, it could not be withdrawn without questions being raised, so it was left in place. Does the Puppet Master know the timing of the pole shift? The timing is known by no man, nor was it provided by the Annunaki, as the slow creep of Planet X past the Sun can encounter many obstacles. The path is certain, the timing is not!